

www.braceybusinesstraining.co.uk

Office - 01384 878810

Steve Bracey 07860 841347

Steve Humpherson 07946 308594

Investigative Interviewing

Investigative interviewing is not just confined to the role of Police Officers. Many professions can call upon the skill of investigative interviewing. However, this is an area of a person's job description that is very rarely trained but expected to be carried out.

This course is designed to provide the delegate with a structured method to interviewing either victims, witnesses or perpetrators whilst maintaining the skill of fairness.

It is a proven system that is used by government investigating organisations. It will teach and emphasise the fact that transparency of integrity is of the utmost importance.

Once trained, the delegate will be able to carry out an interview by using a structure that they will be confident in.

Once the information is obtained the task is then to transfer the interview into a chronological report. This course will provide a structure to transferring the interview into a written report.

Course Contents

Communication skills

Planning and preparation

Time line theory

PEACE – (Plan & Prep, Engage & Explain, the Account, Closure, Evaluate)

Engaging with the interviewee & Rapport building

Getting the interviewees account

Active listening skills

Questioning Skills

Transferring the account into writing

Disclosure issues

Identifying good practices

Various exercises